Wedge Play Game: The 9 Shots

Rules

- Pick a specific target and imagine a grid in the air for high, medium or low, and a draw, straight shot or fade.
- Now play a low draw to your target.
- Count how many attempts it takes you to play this shot successfully, and record it on your scorecard.
- Repeat for a mid-draw and a high draw.
- Repeat for low-straight, mid-straight, and high-straight shots.
- Repeat for low-fade, mid-fade, and high-fade shots.
- Full pre- and post-shot routine for every shot.

Straight shots must fly straight through the correct section of imaginary grid, and land within 2 yards of your target.

Draw or fade must move through the air as required, fly through the correct section of imaginary grid, and land within 4 yards of target. Draw must land to the right of target (for a right-handed golfer), fade must land left of target.

Enter totals for each row and column on your scorecard.

Be Accountable

At the end of every round, think carefully about what you have achieved, and the issues you've faced, and write them down in your practice session log.
